Additional News Printed In City Edition Will Henceforth Appear Tuesdays

From several sources requests have come that the subscribers receiving the County Edition of The Courier-Gazette be given the benefit of the news matter which appears in the City Edition which comes out several hours later, Saturday paper only.

To that end all news matter that appears in the City Edition (which is printed at 10 a. m. Saturday mornings) which was not included in the County Edition which comes off the press late Friday afternoon, will appear in a specially marked section on Tuesday.

The County Edition has proven one of the most popular projects tried to date by this newspaper because it makes possible delivery of the Saturday issue on Saturday to practically every subscriber. Were it not for this plan no subscriber could see the carrier boy zones locally would get their paper until Monday deliveries as there are no post office deliveries Saturday afternoon.

Actually there is little difference between the two issues as not too much of importance is likely to occur in the short space of time between the two printings, but at times momentous things do happen—and from here in the County Edition readers will find in their Tuesday issue, under special heading, all news matter not originally printed in their copy.

The Courier-Gazette earnestly welcomes every honest suggestion and criticism and will do its utmost to serve the greatest number in the best possible manner.

Maine Newspaper Day

Special Program At U. of M. Oct. 14 Recognizing Importance Of Press

Maine Newspaper Day will be observed by the University of Maine Friday, Oct. 14, with a special program in recognition of the importance of a free press in the life of the State.

Erwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor, will open the day's events with a morning address at a University assembly. Mr. Canham was born in Auburn, and is a graduate of Bates College.

Editors and publishers of Maine will be welcomed to the university by President Arthur A. Hauck at a luncheon following the assembly.

The afternoon will be devoted to seminars which will be conducted by experts in various fields of editing and publishing. The seminars will be open to all interested students and faculty members and to the public.

Officers of the Maine Daily Newspaper Publishers Association and the Maine Press Association have accepted, in behalf of their organizations, the university's invitation to participate in the program.

James D. Ewing, co-publisher of the Bangor Daily Commercial, is president of the dailies' group. Kingdon Harvey, editor of the Portland Fairview and an alumnus of the University of Maine, is president of the MPA, which represents the weekly newspapers of the state.

Officers and members of the University of Maine Press Club are assisting in arrangements for the program.

HEARD FROM COMMITTEES

Camden-Rockport Chamber Of Commerce Has a Very Busy Season

About 50 members of the Camden-Rockport Chamber of Commerce attended the business meeting of this organization at the Camden Town Offices, Thursday, to hear a report on efforts to obtain the Research Laboratory for Hoof and Mouth Disease at Islesboro, and other committee reports, and to elect a nominating committee.

President Albert Collins, who made many trips to Islesboro to cooperate with the efforts of the Islesboro Board of Trade on this project, gave an interesting resume of the situation. Collins said that the $64 question now is "What has been decided in Washington?" It seems impossible to find out what, if any decision, has been made.

Collins explained in detail the specifications for the laboratory, and the extreme precautions which will be taken, making it impossible for the escape of the virus. He said that the British research laboratory at Pirbright, England, lacks several of the safeguards to be provided in the U. S., yet no infection has ever escaped from that laboratory although it is surrounded by well-developed livestock farms and is within 60 miles of London.

If the laboratory site is chosen purely upon its merits, Collins said, Islesboro will be the location, for it fills all requirements, and in certain instances offers much superior facilities than competing sites. Collins said that whatever decision was reached, he felt that the joint efforts of the Camden-Rockport and Islesboro committees had brought these communities more closely together in goodwill. A rising vote of thanks was given to President Collins for giving so unselfishly of his time and efforts. General discussion by the members followed.

William Brown, who recently moved to Camden from Massachusetts was welcomed by President Collins. Brown a member of the Industry Committee, reported that he is working with Vernon Packard, co-Chairman of the Industry Committee, and local lumber dealer, in setting up a long-lumber operation in West Rockport, which will use selective cutting. He said that plans were not yet far enough advanced for more detailed report.

The nominating committee was elected by ballot to prepare a slate of candidates for the four vacancies on the Board of Directors at the annual elections in October: Albert Collins, Charles Dwinall, Virgil Jackson, Douglas Kelley, Clyde Marriner. President Collins announced that Albert Rhodes, Rockport, would serve as Auditor.

Clyde Marriner, chairman of the membership committee, reported 293 paid-in memberships, the largest number in the history of the Camden-Rockport Chamber of Commerce. Marriner presented the names of 41 new members, who were welcomed to membership in this organization in 1949.

James Adams, chairman of the mountain trail committee, gave a report of the activities of his committee. Before midsummer all trails in the Park area were cleared and No. 4 up the back of Mt. Battie, and No. 11, the Clay Brook Trail, which had been almost entirely overgrown were reopened. Adams said. A trail to the Megunticook Cave was also marked, during the summer. Water from several springs on the trails had been analyzed and found safe for drinking. Adams drew attention to the bad washouts of the truck trail, or Spring Brook Road through the Camden Hills State Park and suggested that this be brought to the attention of the State Park Commission. He also asked for help in rebuilding the bridge near the ski slope which is gone.

BACK COME THE HERRING

And Rockland Sardine Factories Are Busy Again This Week

Scattered schools of herring along the coast from the mouth of the Kennebec to Jonesport have kept the Rockland area sardine plants busy approximately 70 percent of the usual working hours the past week.

Coming after several weeks of an almost unprecedented shortage of herring, the catches are more than welcome to plant operators and workers alike.

The fish packed here since last Saturday have come largely from the Jonesport area. The long haul by carriers, which load in the morning and arrive in Rockland in the early evening, has necessitated the packing crews working at night to care for the fish.

Lots have been received from the Boothbay areas with an occasional catch in the Muskege Ridges. While there have been fairly heavy catches near the entrance to the Kennebec River, these have been mostly by seiners from the Portland packing plants with the catch going to those plants.

Fish are a long way from being plentiful in this section as yet, but plant operators are looking forward to a heavier run of herring as the water in the bay grows colder.

ROCKLAND GARDEN CLUB

Holds a "Flower Tea" At the home Of Its President, Mrs. Josephine Rice

The Rockland Garden Club met Tuesday afternoon at the Lindsey street home of the president, Mrs. Josephine Rice, for a "Flower Tea."

The meeting was high lighted by floral arrangements in the living room and dining room, of which the members were judges. First prize was won by Mrs. Ralph Bangs with her arrangement of trumpet lilies on a low silver dish, second prize went to Mrs. George Avery with an arrangement of fruit on a low silver bowl. The dining room was lovely in pastel tints, the centerpiece of the tea table being an arrangement of asters in a silver basket, tall pastel tapers in silver holders, and mints in silver bowls, carried out the delightful color scheme. Pouring were, Mrs. Rockland Ware and Mrs. Stuart Burgess. Helping the hostess serve were, Mrs. Arthur Haines, Mrs. Frank Carsley and Mrs. J. A. Jameson.

At the business meeting preceding the tea, it was voted to donate $25 to the Polo fund and $10 to the Community Building Drive; $10 has been sent to Mrs. E. K. Merrill, chairman of the Lilac Memorial for Togus committee, for the purchase of hybrid lilac shrubs for accents. Mrs. Dorothy Carsley is chairman of a committee collecting native shrubs for this project, and has ten already promised.

Chase of hybrid lilac shrubs for accents. Mrs. Dorothy Carsley is chairman of a committee collecting native shrubs for this project, and has ten already promised.

Capt. Mary Emery, who joined the club at the August meeting, exhibited a Hawaiian Wood Rose, which she brought from the Islands many years ago, and which is still in good condition. She also described its appearance in its native land.

Program Chairman, Mrs. Charles Merritt, read a prose poem entitled "Feel of Fall." Mrs. J. A. Jameson gave a short talk on putting the garden to bed for the winter. Mrs. E. Stewart Orbeton gave an informal talk on "Flower Arranging," illustrating her points with arrangements brought for that purpose. This is a subject close to the hearts of all Garden Club members and Mrs. Orbeton, did full justice to her subject.

Frank M. Hallowell, 40 Knott street, identified as Frank Sherer, the "oldtime cop" whose picture appeared in Tuesday's issue. Correct!

Reminiscent of old time verses recently quoted in this column, Mrs. Ermina Williams of Warren sends this contribution, remarking that she heard it sung 75 years ago: "If I ever cease to love, If I ever cease to love, May little dogs wag their tails in front If I ever cease to love."

A North End family of three members had a lobster festival of its own one day this week. The head of the house came home with ten of the crustaceans, and his better half, who is a skilled cook, turned them to account in several ways known to lobster connoisseurs. Just before bedtime there remained a few morsels of the ten, and they were fashioned into sandwiches for a fare thee well.

A Rockland couple which has been touring Europe this Summer, dined at a fashionable cafe where nothing is served but ducks. Duck in six courses, prepared as only French chefs know how to do such things. The meal was delicious, as it should have been at $9 a plate.

Mrs. Ann M. Pollett of Lynn, Mass., who has a Summer home at "Sunrise Farm" in Liberty, writes to me that another name might be added to the list of those who "walked the ice" the winter the whole bay was frozen over. "I have heard tell," she writes "that Capt. William Thurston of Rockport walked from Pulpit Harbor, North Haven, to Rockport, sounding his way along by thumping the ice a few feet ahead as he went along. His descendants still live at Rockport and North Haven, I think."

"I well remember the frozen harbor of which you write," writes Rev. W. J. Day. The Baptist parsonage was on Middle street hill and I could look down on the harbor. It was an unusual sight, and I recall nothing like it while I was pastor there."

Mrs. W. E. Neil, Pomona, Calif., cook, walked away with 50 blue ribbons at the Los Angeles county fair, yet she wasn't quite satisfied with that achievement. Last year she won 110 firsts. And that's why she was disappointed.

[EDITORIAL]

HOPE IT WAS APPRECIATED

Is Uncle Sam a good neighbor? From a financial standpoint, at least, he's a mighty good one. During the four postwar years up to July 1 of the current year his total in gifts and grants to foreign countries has amounted to $13,260,000,000. Last year's $5,169,000,000 was almost double the $2,693,000,000 for the previous year.

Germany was listed as the chief beneficiary in grants in both fiscal 1949 and 1948—$983,000,000 in 1949 and $627,000,000 in 1948. The former enemy country has received $2,041,000,000 in grants since the war. Britain and France were second and third in rank in fiscal 1949 with $899,000,000 and $750,000,000 respectively. Their total in post-war grants is more than $1,000,000,000 each. Britain got $102,000,000, France $363,000,000 in 1948 grants.

TO REVISE TAX LAWS

Congressional action in 1950 will give priority to a general revision of Federal tax laws. The fact that 1950 is an election year would seem to indicate that the statesmen will be inclined to move with extreme caution, but somehow they must devise new sources of revenue. It is said that Congress may actually reduce some levies—probably in the excise list. Some members believe the wartime excise rates to be burdensome both to taxpayers and to business.

FARM HOMES INCREASE

New England showed the largest gain in farm population of any region in the United States from January 1, 1940, to the first of this year, according to the Agricultural Review of the Department of Agriculture. Its farm population went up 22 1/2 percent, while the national farm population declined 8 1/2 percent.

This does not mean, however, that people are swarming to New England to add to its dairy products, poultry and eggs, potatoes, apples, etc. The increase occurred during the period of demobilization of the armed forces. Much of it is credited to the housing shortage in cities which caused persons with city employment to seek residence on farms. Buying and renovating of old farm places is still going on.

No significant increase in farm production is seen among the best-posted sources on New England agriculture. But a great many people have found better homes in the country than they could in the cities. The trend is not new. It dates back long before the war and is native to New England. This region is one of the most attractive in the nation for home life. Its cities generally lack the accumulation of apartment buildings common to major communities elsewhere, and as a rule it is unusually easy to get out of the city into nearby woods.

The rise in farm population has tended to prevent the overcrowding of the cities and has helped many families to share in New England's rural advantages.—Christian Science Monitor.

Rockland Shellites Continue Pace They Set Last Year In Hot Shot League

(By Joe Talbot)

Everything is progressing smoothly as the bowling leagues swing into the second week of action, with the following schedule for the remainder of this week:

Thursday: Speed League, L.S.A.'s vs. Aces; Clippers vs. All Stars. Friday: Independent League, L.S.A.'s vs. Giants; Rockets vs. Rangers.

In the opener for the Ladies Fourflusher League, the Diamonds upset the strongly favored Hearts, taking all five points from the last year's champions. The Spades gained the runner-up spot by taking over the Clubs for four points. Individual honors went to Irma Lacombe with a 284 total and Norma Whyte with a fine 120 single.

The champion Rockland Shellites continued their last year's pace with a five-point victory over the Rockport Boat Club in the Hot Shot League. Harold Heal bowled 290 to lead the champs, while Lombardo copped the high single with 111. Lew Dietz led the Rockporters with a 283 total. Capt. Edgar Allen led his Legion teams to a five-point sweep over Tom's Lunch, bowling a 292 total and a 114 single. Capt. Tom Aylward led his team with a 282 total.

The rejuvenated Speed League swung into action with last year's champion Aces serving notice on rest of the teams with a startling total of 1861, to knock off the All Stars five points to 0. Ken Herick and "Tut" Whittier led the attack with totals of 347 and 346 respectively. George Lacombe led the stars with a 316 total.

The Clippers continued their 1948 pace by losing to the Lucky Strike A's, the A's taking all five points by a 21-point margin. "Ronnie" Freeman bowled a 303 total to lead the A's, while Captain "Talcott" hit 299 for the Clippers.

The champs of the Independent League, the Lucky Strike B's, started right in where they left off, notching a five-point victory over the Rockets. "Bill" Claytor and "Izzy" Prince led the B's with totals of 287 and 286 respectively. "Pop" Talbot hit a 265 total and a 114 single to lead the Rockets.

Watch St. George!

Twilight Ball Team Will Have Community's Solid Backing Next Season

Monday night a meeting was held in the new St. George Legion home for the purpose of organizing a baseball club to back the local twilight entry next year. A goodly number was in attendance, considering there was also a special town meeting being held on the same night.

The following temporary officers were elected: President, Douglas Anderson, secretary, Frank Shields; treasurer, Donald Wood. Regular officers will be elected at a future meeting.

Next Monday night at 7.30 p. m., there will be another meeting of the organization at the Legion home. All citizens of the town of St. George that are interested in baseball are cordially invited to attend.

Sunday, Oct. 2, the St. George baseball fans are in for a post-season treat. The St. George "Jitters" play the St. George Colored Giants at 2 p. m. for the benefit of the ball club. This game promises to be the gem of the season.

Now don't forget folks, Oct. 2, the St. George "Jitters" vs. the St. George Colored Giants at St. George and Oct. 3 the baseball meeting at the new St. George Legion home.

The Rangers and Giants will have to wait until Friday night to find out who won their match. After the shooting was all over, both teams had 1386, and as some of the players had left the alleys, it will have to be rolled off this week.

The Rangers have two of the points and the Giants, one. Eddie Marcello hit 287 and Hart Blanchard hit a 282 total and a 119 single for the Rangers, with Joe Bolduc and Lawrence Manning performing very well for the Giants. Joe hit a 320 total and a 126 single, with Lawrence coming up with a 319 total.

Oldtime Polo Player

Perley Graffam Visits Rockland and Chats With a Fellow Fan

Perley Graffam of Portland, old time roller polo player, was in the city Tuesday, and talked shop with the writer, who is a polo fan from the ground up, and who served for 25 years as a referee of the games played in the old Arcade on Spring street.

Graffam played five years in the Ohio League, and then became a member of the National League. Among the teams for which he tended goal were Schenectady, N. Y., and Waterbury, Conn. Like all players who defend the cage he was in constant danger of sustaining injuries but the climax came in his final year of play when he suffered a broken jaw and a broken arm. He decided to call it a day, but he never lost interest in the sport which has had Knox County by the ears ever since the days when the famous H.M.B.'s were beating the professional teams right and left.

Graffam was brought in contact with a majority of the players whose names are familiar to old-timers, most of whom have pursued the old red apple on the Arvey R. Pease, Wiscasset.

Members of the Legislature will meet to discuss Legislative problems and policy. Representative Linwood E. Palmer, Jr., of Nobleboro will preside.

County and Town Committee Officers, Carroll Keen of Clinton presiding, will discuss the local caucus and enrollment. Panel members are to be announced.

At 3.30 there will be a concluding panel on State and National Problems with Senator Cross presiding. Panel members will be Governor Payne, Senator Smith, Representative Nelson and Speaker Haskell.

cade surface. Among them was the gay and debonaire Hipson, whom he remembered—as the writer did —of making goal shots standing on one foot.

"Remember Dick Furbush?" asked Graffam.

"Should say I did," was the reply. "Every polo fan in Knox County remembered the slugging half-back of the Lewiston team."

And so it went on, and in the course of the conversation there was mutual recollection of such players as Higgins, Hart, Harkins, Murtaugh, Jim Mooney, Eddie Mooney, Jean Roberts, Curtis, Lincoln, Cashman, Morrison, McGillivray, Cameron, Campbell, Whipple, Shaughnessy, the Pierces, "Pop" McKay, and Duggan.

Mr. Graffam has been with Burnham & Morrill 37 years, and came to Rockland Tuesday with his associate, Richard A. Rhodes, formerly of Rockland.

The Weather

Oklahoma voted dry, but here in Rockland it was wet by spells yesterday and last night. Suspicion exists that the "much needed" may soon be wearing out its welcome. Cloudy today; fair and cooler. Today is the second anniversary of Miami's great hurricane. It has been quite breezy down there this summer.

All members of the American Legion in the county are invited to a field day and lobster feed at North Haven Sunday. Commander Ervin Curtis states that the passenger boat North Haven will leave from McLoon's Wharf at 9 a. m. The mainland Legionnaires and their ladies will be guests of the North Haven and Vinalhaven Posts for the day.

There will be a social evening at Winslow-Hillbrook-Merritt Home Friday with members of the Legion and their guests invited. Woodcock's orchestra has been engaged for the evening for the square dancing.

A chimney fire at the home of Walter Leach at 208 Park street called out the fire department Wednesday morning. There was no property damage.

Rockland Lions

In Informal Program Members Tell Why They Live In Rockland

Howard Crockett of Vinalhaven was a guest of George Shaw.

Our attendance at this meeting was fairly large which is rather difficult to understand with at least eight Lions on vacations and trips.

Remember the Boy Scout Fair, Glen Cove Grange Hall, Friday night at 7.30 The Sea Scouts will receive credit for each Lion who attends.

We found ourselves without a program because of a movie that did not arrive. However, we made out very well and had a very interesting meeting. The members were asked to give three minute talks on "Why I Live In Rockland." It appears that all those taking part like living in Rockland very much. Talks were made by the following: George Shaw, Henry Howard, Rev. Paul Kenyon, Ray Fogarty, Art Jordan, E. Gordon, Lorne Wedlock, Keith Goldsmith, Gerry Grant, Duke Annis and Josh Southard.

Clinton Gifford had his choice of paying a fine or playing a piano solo. He chose the solo much to the delight of those present. We are in hopes to hear from Giff again. Speaker next week: Lee Warren, Field Scout Executive of this area. —by Bradford Burgess

Knox-Waldo Group

Made Fine Showing At State Cosmetologists' Convention

Mrs. Roger Knight of Gilbert's Beauty Salon, had the pleasure of representing the Knox Waldo Unit at the State convention in Portland, Tuesday night.

The lovely Jeanette Escorsio depicted the month of October, our "Indian Summer," dressed in costume from head to toe and sang the delightful "Indian Love Call," a long-time favorite. Jeanette did not win the title of "Miss Maine of Cosmetology," but she did win the hearts of her audience and the applause she received was most gratifying.

Twelve units were represented, each for a month of the year and the models were judged, 60% costume, 20% hair, corresponding to the costume, and 20% for poise. This was the wind-up of the affair and was very beautiful. Miss Escorsio was excellent, and the Knox-Waldo Unit is justly proud of her.

Rockland has a right to be proud of Al Plourd, who served as co-chairman for the Convention, and did a wonderful job. He gave time and effort and the Knox-Waldo Unit wishes to extend its thanks to him and is happy to have such a splendid worker.

The Knox-Waldo Unit was well represented by Mrs. Roger Knight of Gilbert's Beauty Salon, and two operators; Al Plourd of Al's Hairdressing Salon, and three operators; Clara Nason of The Peter Pan Shoppe; Mr. and Mrs. James Roach of Flo's Beauty Shop, all of Rockland. Marilyn Hupper of Marilyn's Beauty Shop, Tenant's Harbor, and Mrs. Florence Carr of Flo's Beauty Shop, Camden; also members of the Waldo section. The convention proved to be most successful, many new styles and ideas being learned and all are anxious to "dig in" and put their new knowledge to work.

Our Foreign Policy

Democrats and Republicans Will Have Opposing Views in the Campaign

A Republican-Democratic battle over foreign policy seems to be developing in preliminary skirmishes of the 1950 congressional campaign. Politicians said they will be surprised if it warms into the isolationist-internationalist argument of yesterday. Instead they look for a quarrel over the methods and strategy of keeping world peace.

Two Republican candidates in next year's Senate races—Senator Taft of Ohio and former Representative Kirksen of Illinois—already are beating the bushes in criticism of Administration foreign policies. Taft told a reporter some of his critics are accusing him unjustly of being an isolationist because he voted against the Atlantic Security Pact and the Administration's $1,314,000,000 foreign arms program.

Taft said he balked at the arms program because he thinks it may provoke Russia to war much sooner than the Soviet otherwise might. He said he voted against the pact only because he felt that it involved an arms commitment.

As evidence that he doesn't want this country to crawl into a shell, he cited his proposal that the United States extend the Monroe Doctrine to Europe and that it promise flatly to fight any time the Russians attack western Europe.

Dirksen, known as an advocate of international co-operation when he was a member of the House, has voted for it, when he was in the House.

Now he says that the United States deficit is such that to be sending funds abroad for European economic recovery is "like the blind leading the blind."

Democrats haven't settled on Taft's opponent, Senator Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader, probably will run again for the job Dirksen wants. Lucas is one of the staunchest Senator supporters of the Administration's foreign policies.

Following discussion of the granting of further rate increases to the New England Telephone Company, it was voted to send a letter to the company drawing attention to present inadequacies in service.

Busy Lions Club

Camden-Rockport Members Going To Turn Town Upside Down Oct. 7

Friday, Oct. 7, figures as a big day in Camden, if the Lions Club has anything to do about it. This is the day that the Lions really roll up their sleeves and start two of their many "Fall Activities."

With the expected help of the entire community for both "Double Features" and especially of the Camden High School for the Day Feature—it is hoped to raise a large sum for the Washington Trip Fund of the Camden High School Class of 1950 by means of a Rummage sale, and at night for the Emergency Polio Fund with a gigantic beano in the Camden Opera House.

For the rummage sale, Leon Crockett is chairman and reports that the sale will begin at 11:30 Friday morning at the Castro-Walsh factory building opposite the Fire Station. The entire High School have been asked to dig in their attics and basements and to contact neighbors, to accumulate a large assortment of clothes, books and furniture for the event.

The location is central for everyone and will be open from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. on Thursday, Oct. 6, to receive bundles or furniture and books. Call Mr. Crockett, 2218, or any Lion, and someone will call for donations.

At night the Lions have engaged the Opera House for the largest community party Camden has seen

Many Nurses Serve Infantile Paralysis Is Draining "March Of Dimes" Epidemic Fund

Recruitment and assignment of nurses to serve on emergency polio duty this year is far exceeding that of last year and it is anticipated the total may top that of any previous year, the American Red Cross announced.

Since the beginning of the year, 1,943 nurse assignments have been made for service in 35 States and the District of Columbia. Nursing costs are a major item in the care of patients, according to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, whose "March of Dimes" epidemic funds have been exhausted.

Since July 1, this year the Red Cross has recruited and assigned more than 1,000 nurses to duty in polio stricken areas and demands for qualified nurses to serve are continuing. Last week, 139 assignments were made in 22 States and the District of Columbia.

The Red Cross, by agreement with the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, now conducting the first emergency appeal for funds in its history, recruits for those communities where nursing resources have been depleted. The N.F.P. pays travel costs, salaries, and maintenance of nurses recruited. The problem has been particularly great this year, the Red Cross points out, because of the widespread incidence of polio which has created a demand for nurses in every geographical area in the country.

Another Problem

Lewis Johnson Fires One At "The Black Cat" From His Pleasant Beach Retreat

Pleasant Beach, So. Thomaston, Sept. 22.

Editor of The Black Cat:—

The solution of the army and messenger problem given in the issue of your valued paper dated Sept. 17, 1949 is an ingenious one and perfectly correct, I believe. It seems to me, however, that to most of your readers, it will be difficult to follow, not only because the mathematician cut some corners, but also because his solution involves a quadratic equation. I am taking the liberty of submitting a solution which appeals to me as being simpler to follow and free from any quadratic equation, although it necessarily gets into an equation of the second power. That is inherent in the problem.

You may be interested in the problem submitted on another sheet, enclosed. It is capable of mental solution and has intrigued many engineers and others.

Lewis H. Johnson.

Mr. Johnson's Problem

An oarsman, rowing upstream in a river, lost his hat overboard just as he passed a stake in the river. Because the hat was an old one, he decided to let it go until he suddenly recalled that he had hidden a five dollar bill in the hat band. At that time he had rowed upstream from the stake for ten minutes. Instantly, he put about and rowed downstream at the same rate until he overtook the hat exactly one mile downstream from the stake at which he lost it. What is the rate of flow of the river?

The solution will be published in Saturday's issue.

Geo. Smith, Historian

Former Rockland Boy, 32 Years With Bird &amp; Co., Writes Interesting Article

The current issue of "Bird Net" contains the opening installment of The History of the Norwood Roofing Plant, written by George E. Smith, a former Rockland boy. The high regard in which the corporation holds Mr. Smith may be judged by the following foreword which appears at the head of his article.

"If you went looking for just the right man to prepare a history of the Roofing Plant, you couldn't do better than to select George Smith. No man in Bird & Son has been closer to the Roofing Plant operations during the past quarter century. George has been around these parts for 32 years, most of them at the Roofing Plant. He has been right on the spot to see for himself during the years of the plant's greatest expansion.

"It is with real pride, therefore, that we present here George Smith's chronological history of the development of the Bird & Son Roofing Business. For his own amusement and satisfaction, George Smith has spent many week ends and evenings at home reading here, checking there, to complete this very detailed history of events and persons in the Bird & Son Roofing Division.

"The editors first learned of this undertaking about a year ago. Various people both in and out of the Bird & Son organization who have read this history are enthusiastic about it. Each one of them in turn said, "Why don't you print it in the Review?"

"Although George Smith did not prepare his history with any thought of its being used in this way, the editors have obtained his permission to reprint it here. This is the first installment. Others will appear in future issues as space permits."

SCULPTURE TAUGHT AT MUSEUM

Editors Of Life Loaning Exhibit Of Maine Sculptor's Work For October Showing

The Farnsworth Art Museum in Rockland has arranged to show a photographic exhibition prepared by the editors of Life Magazine, beginning Oct. 1, and continuing through Oct. 30.

The sub-title of Sculpture Lesson is "William Zorach demonstrates the basic steps in modeling clay and casting." The exhibition is based on a story which originally appeared in Life. However, the material is greatly expanded and numerous pictures heretofore unpublished have been added.

William Zorach is one of the most distinguished American sculptors, and his work is represented in many museums throughout the country. He and his wife, Marguerite, also a distinguished artist, have made their Summer home for many years in Robinhood, Mr. Zorach has long been regarded as an outstanding teacher, and it is this aspect of his work which is documented in the exhibition.

Sculpture Lesson is divided into three sections. The first panels are devoted to the actual creation of a figure in clay; the many steps in modeling and the characteristic problems which confront a sculptor in this particular medium. The second section is concerned with making the mould. This intricate process is described in detail, and the enlarged photographs show vividly the skill and patience required in manipulating wet plaster.

The third section describes the final and exciting step of casting. Here a special hard-drying wet plaster is used to make the mould. And it is this mould which is ultimately chipped off to reveal the statue, a plaster replica of the original clay figure.

In addition to the explanatory captions which accompany the photographs, quotations from Zorach's recent book on sculpture are also included. These personal comments on the art of sculpture add richness to the series and give some hint of the genius behind Zorach's own work. As Zorach says: "A work of art is always, in a sense, autobiographical."

Sculpture Lesson closes with the finished statue after it has been cast in plaster. The final quotation from Zorach suggests perhaps better than anything else the immortal urge of the artist: "You who have the desire to model in clay, or carve in wood and stone, have a world of adventure before you. Through doing you will come to understand the problems other artists have to face. Through creating works of your own, you will come to know the beauty expressed by others."

CHAPTER XII

"You're sleepy, Hope," Mrs. Craig said abruptly. "Better get off to bed."

"I'm not so sleepy," Hope objected. "Just thinking."

Granny sniffed knowingly, nodded. "You can think in bed as well as you can sitting up, and you can rest while you're at it." And, with a teasing smile, "If you're worrying over having to learn to milk, I'll ask the Halleck boy to give you a lesson in the morning."

Hope viewed her grandmother narrowly. At times the wise old lady seemed to be gifted with clairvoyance! "Please don't bother," she said primly. "I prefer to be a self-taught milkmaid!"

Harley Webster roared over early the next morning in his truck. With him were the Darnleys, Mr. Buckley, and Mr. Wallace. All brought tools of one kind or another, and they were in a jovial, industrious mood. The older Darnley was enjoying his morning dip—or "lip"—of snuff, and Will was pleasantly walloping a quid of plug about in his large mouth.

"Well, here we are, lads!" Mr. Webster called in his raspy voice. "Ready for work an' rain' to go!"

"I'm rain' too," Andy said. He felt a glow deep within him for these men. They were pitching in without promise of pay, to help a stranger get established! Work and the prospect of failure and the hope of success were the bonds between them. They were openhearted, open-minded; they wanted nothing from him but his unspoken promise to share their lot as modern pioneers.

"Got a list of things you want from town?" Harley asked. "We'll go right in, you an' me, an' fetch the stuff out."

"No messin' around, either," Mr. Wallace drawled. "Sooner we get this place fixed up, the sooner we can have the housewarmin'."

"Aw, don't shoo him off right at the bust!" old man Darnley warned, pretending to be gruff. "Idea is to do the work an' git him good an' grateful, then pop it to him. He may fire us all, now, 'fore we can drive a nail!"

Andy laughed. "We'll have the warmest housewarmin' a family can give!" he promised happily. "Let's go to town, Harley."

"Wait'll we unload our well-drivin' rig," Will Darnley said, "an' find out where you want it set up."

"An' we'll be levelin' up the ground for the foundations for the new room," Mr. Buckley said. "Don't git in too big a hurry, friend lads, to go off an' leave yore help with nothin' to do."

Dave had noted with relief that Mr. Webster had left his wife and Oreen at home. But this feeling of escape ended when Harley informed Mrs. Ives that Birdie and Reen would be over after a while to help get dinner ready for the crowd.

"But there are three of us women here," Kate said. "Mrs. Webster and Oreen don't need to come to help."

"That's all right, perfectly all right," Harley Webster said with air magnanimous, "an' don't you worry 'bout it. Birdie just loves to help people. Gives her a chance to talk, I reckon. An', course, she couldn't go off an' leave Reen there by herself."

Dave groaned inwardly and began dreading the noon meal. How could he eat if the short, busy-eyed girl sat across the table studying him like some creature in a zoo! He would wait! Often, when they had had a lot of company on Sunday, he had eaten at the second table.

Dave Is Teased About Oreen

But, no, that wouldn't work! The men would fill the first table, and he would have to eat with the women!

It was a busy morning at the Ives place. The two Darnleys set up their well rigging and were ready for the pipe long before Andy and Harley Webster came back from town. Mr. Wallace and Mr. Buckley worked at the south side of the house, making ready for the concrete blocks that would support the new room. And, part of the time, they were under the cabin, examining the sills to see if any needed replacing before the new floors were laid. If it had been their own property, the neighbors could not have been more conscientious and industrious.

Bigelow Halleck came with the cow shortly before the truck had returned from Newcastle. She was a sleek, gentle animal—

"Just her second calf," he said rather proudly, nodding toward the frisking, tan-and-white offspring that trailed its mother. "Never been touched with a stick."

"We'll take good care of her," Dave promised. "How do you like her looks, Granny?" he called. Hope had stopped in the door, although she really didn't believe Big would think she was coming out to see him rather than the cow.

"I got the cow into the little pole-built lot, and fastened the calf in a stall of the barn. 'Maybe have a little milk for you tonight,' said Big, 'but it'll take a day or two for her to get used to the new place.'"

Dave shucked a dozen ears of corn and gave the Jersey the husks to chew on. She seemed contented enough, although restless and very inquisitive. Maybe a little playful too, for she shook her head at Dave and blew loudly through her wide nostrils before she accepted the corn husks that he had dropped as he had jumped back.

"She won't hook anybody!" Bigelow said, laughing shortly. "You don't know much about cows, do you?"

"Never fooled with 'em," Dave confessed.

"She's a nice, young cow," Granny said with an air of knowing. "Well," said Bigelow, "you won't get more than two and a half gallons from her when she's at her peak, but it'll be the richest milk you ever saw."

"Hey, Big!" Will Darnley yelled, "stop braggin' 'bout yore cow an' come pull this drivin' rope. You got to pay now for the water you may drink from Andy Ives' well."

The young man grinned good-naturedly and went to join the Darnleys. The pulley creaked querulously as with one big hand he pulled the weight up and dropped it onto the persimmon block atop the well pipe.

Hope turned abruptly and headed back into the house. As she went she felt his gaze boring into her back.

"You're a good man, son," said old Mr. Darnley. "Wish I could call back fifty years. I was pretty stout, myself, back then."

"Bet you were," Big agreed. "I just hope that when I'm your age I'm as good a man as you are."

"It takes snuff, boy! No other way. Hard work an' strong snuff."

Mr. Webster was riving out shingles. His frow "whished" dryly through cypress billets, and each fresh shingle rattled with almost metallic clearness as he tossed it onto the growing pile.

Mr. Wallace and Mr. Buckley were leveling up the foundation for the new room. Andy and Dave had little to do except serve as general fundies.

At ten thirty Mrs. Webster and Oreen came. Dave was helping the Darnleys. Bigelow Halleck had gone home. Mrs. Webster accorded the menfolk a reserved and ladylike "Mornin'," and hastened past them to the cabin. Oreen lagged behind, though, and attempted to make a detour that would carry her close to the Darnleys and Dave.

"Oreen!" Mrs. Webster, called from the doorway. And, sweetly: "Come on in the house, honey. There's a heap to do."

"Yes'm," Oreen agreed. "I'm comin'. Hello, Dave. You workin' hard?"

"Helpin'." Dave said. With a swift glance he noted that her dress was still too tight, and that her patent-leather pumps were still too small. "We're drivin' a well," he added, then seized the rope and tugged with uncommon fervor.

She went on in, but not without stopping in the narrow doorway to cast a lingering look at the boy.

Old man Darnley spat noisily, but thoughtfully with the wind. "That gal likes you, boy," he said with a sly wink. "You ought to set up to her. She's pretty as a little red hen!"

More Rumors About Halleck

Dave turned redder than such a hen. "Aw, shucks!" was all he could think to say. This, obviously, wasn't what he should have said, for the old man and Will broke into rough laughter.

In the house, Birdie Webster apologized for being late, but laid it to a churning that had been uncommonly slow in "coming." The milk, she pointed out, hadn't "turned" enough, or maybe the cow needed some salt. After a ten-minute account of her difficult time, she announced that she and Oreen were there to do whatever they could to help. "An' if my little 'Reen gits in the way or talks too much, jes' speak to her. She's good in the kitchen, though, if I do say it."

Dinner was well under way, and the Webster womenfolk were not needed, but they would be. Hope thought grimly when dishwashing time came. Mrs. Webster, though, was so determined to be of help that Hope and Granny quietly left the kitchen and betook themselves to the main room.

"She'd wear a person out, helpin'!" Hope stage-whispered.

"As Wimpy would say, in the comic strip," said Granny, "she'd help you to death!"

"O ma!" Oreen cried, turning from the narrow kitchen window, "they got a cow an' a calf!"

"Well, now, ain't that nice?" Birdie said gladly, looking through the window. "Where'd you all find that nice Jersey?"

"Is it a bull calf or a heifer?" Oreen began.

"Reen!" Birdie cut in, shocked to an almost squeaky tone. "Ask if it's male or female. What is it, Miz Ives?"

"Why, I don't know," Kate answered. "I haven't thought to ask."

"It's a heifer—I mean, a female," Granny called.

"Where'd you git the cow?" Mrs. Webster persisted.

"Bigelow Halleck brought her out this morning. We'll milk her for feed and keep."

"Oh-ummm!" Birdie Webster said, and looked secretly moved. The "ummm!" had been a sort of brake to stop the words that had almost popped out. "Well, I do say! She looked through the open door at Hope, who was sweeping up the hearth."

Granny caught the look and knew that Mr. Webster was fairly expiring with the desire to say more. "It was very nice of the young man," she said pleasantly, by way of giving Birdie a cue.

Mrs. Webster sniffed and looked at the old lady sadly. "Well, some might think it was nice," she said, and folded her thin arms.

"Why wouldn't others?" Kate asked. "He seems very nice."

"Well, now, that all depends. I always say, give the devil his due." She shook her head sadly. "I told you all about Big. He'd 'a' been all right if it hadn't been for that Virgie Winslow."

"Still," Kate said, "I can't see how his experience with her would make it wrong for us to accept the cow from him."

"No, ma'am, I ain't sayin' you done wrong. It's—it's— Well, you see, if a young man that thinks the way Big thinks about gals now, after the way that one broke his heart, offered us a cow, Harley an' me might think he had interior motives."

"Interior motives," Granny corrected her. "You mean you'd think he had a dark, hidden purpose in being generous?"

"I mean interior motives," Birdie stated with a quick glance into the main room. "That means the motives is inside him, an' that he's keepin' them to himself." She lowered her voice a little. "We might think he was after our little 'Reen!"

Hope almost ran out the front door, to get out of sight. She had to laugh. The idea of Bigelow Halleck showing any interest in chunky little Oreen made her want to whoop and cackle. Added to this was the implication that he had brought the cow and calf as a subtle move to make Hope the slave of his heart!

At that point another person arrived on the scene. When Hope, trying to control her laughter, saw him, he was looking at her intently. He was gaunt and dark, with black hair that needed cutting and black, quick eyes. His face was thin, bluish with stubble; his nose was thin and crooked, suggesting that someone had struck it with considerable force at one time or another; his mouth was narrow and thin-lipped, and his chin receded.

He was standing near Harley Webster, who called out: "Miss Hope, this is Hank Butler. He come to help too."

Hank Joins Others Lending a Hand

"Hello," Hope said, and wished he would stop staring.

"—to mecha," Hank Butler mumbled, touching the limp brim of his black felt hat. He tried a smile, but it was more a grimace than an expression of mirth or greeting. "Looks like you all got a crowd already," he said.

Hope nodded. "Everyone's being awfully nice. I don't know whether Dad has something you can be doing or not. He's around back, with Mr. Buckley and Mr. Wallace."

Hank Butler nodded. "Well, I'll see you pa, then."

Hope turned abruptly and headed back into the house. As she went she felt his gaze boring into her back.

"Oh, there's Hank!" Oreen said happily. "You ought to hear him play the guitar! He can fairly make it talk!"

"Lordy, yes!" Birdie agreed. "Him an' Mr. Flipp is a whole

Gifts were sent also by Mrs. Mar-orchestra all by themselves! "The work went fast that day, and by sundown Mr. Webster had a pile of fine shingles riven; the well pipe had been driven twenty feet down; and the extra room was framed. Dave had successfully managed to eat at the first table, with the men, but even then, he hadn't escaped Oreen. She had helped with the serving, and every time she brought food to the table she had leaned over Dave's shoulder to set the dish down; and with every leaning she had brushed his shrinking shoulder lightly, and perhaps a trifle lingeringly.

Brother Cowann came the next morning, more to give his blessing to the varied project than to offer aid.

Red Cross Recreation Program Helps Hospitalized Servicemen

Providing recreation and entertainment for hospitalized and convalescent servicemen is an important Red Cross job at military hospitals. These Red Cross hospital recreation workers take a group of patients for a tour of Mammoth Cave, Ky., during an outing sponsored by a community service organization.

Any woman will tell you she'd rather nurse five sick children than one sick man. Doctors and nurses are inclined to agree with her. A man resents being helpless and is often beset by fears for himself and his family.

The sick soldier is little different from the civilian, except that treating the sick serviceman presents additional problems.

Unlike the patient in the civilian hospital, who undergoes his convalescence at home, the soldier remains in the hospital until he is completely fit for duty. After the acute phase of the serviceman's illness is past, he is sent to a "reconditioning ward," where he remains until he is able to take up his regular military job. Sometimes he remains there for weeks. An usually he is far from home.

For recreation and simple, pleasurable activities to fill those long hours of convalescence, military physicians in post hospitals look to the American Red Cross and its corps of specially trained recreation workers.

HOPE

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. True spent the week-end at Sebago Lake with their daughter, Pauline, and her husband's family, the Simon Moultons.

Ralph Brown returned to Massachusetts Sunday after three weeks at home on account of sickness.

Capt. David E. Brown returned Friday after a 13 weeks' training course at Fort Bliss, Texas. There will be a public whist party at the Grange hall at Hope corner, Sept. 29, at 8 p. m. for the benefit of the Polio fund. Mrs. Kay Brown, Mrs. Ruth Pease and Mrs. Ruth Payson are the committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Brown were dinner guests at the David Browns Sunday, the occasion being David's birthday.

There will be a luncheon at the Grange hall Oct. 5, with Mrs. Marjorie Beverage, Mrs. Ruth Pease and Mrs. Florence Brown in charge. This is opening day for the Women's Club and all members are invited to the luncheon, and others who may feel they'd like to attend. Business meeting is in the afternoon with election of officers and collection of dues. Plans for the coming year will be discussed and the officers will be glad of ideas and support.

Stobie Optimistic

Sees Good and Unbroken Hunting Season In Maine This Fall

An unbroken 1949 hunting season with deer plentiful and game birds in abundance is predicted by Maine's commissioner of Inland Fisheries and Game, George J. Stobie.

Stobie predicted a "good year" with deer plentiful in most areas statewide. "I don't see any reason why we shouldn't have an unbroken hunting season," the commissioner said.

Other wildlife—birds and fur-bearing animals—show an increase, Stobie reported. Warden and his Department's Wildlife Research division reports show a goodly supply of grouse, woodcock, rabbits and squirrel.

Unless we get frost, hunting will be especially hard, Stobie warned. Then we'll have to wait until the leaves begin to fall for easier stalking.

Six counties will open to deer hunting enthusiasts Oct. 21—all north of Route 302: Arrostook, Penobscot, Somerset, Piscataquis, Franklin and Oxford.

Nov. 1 opens up hunting for deer south of Route 302, or the remainder of the State's 16 counties.

This Saturday brings open seasons on rabbits, gray squirrels, pheasants, partridge and woodcock.

Oct. 7 rings a bell for migratory bird hunters—ducks will be on the wing. Included in this group are ducks, wood ducks, geese, scoters and eider ducks.

1948 produced a new record in total number of deer killed within the Pine Tree State—35,316.

Aside from the good news of the opening of the season, a sombre note should be sounded. 1948 deer-hunting fatalities totaled 18 by hunting, 1 by drowning.

Franklin Curtis Tells Tall Tales About His Townsmen

Long Cove, Sept. 26. Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

Here's to the man who trimmed what was called "The Whirlwind," at pitching hay and also at hand mowing in 1911 and 1912.

While Ed, Curtis, then of Cush- ing, was going to O. B. Libby's to work in haying, he was warned by "Fidalfus" Newbert and also by Samford Buckland, both farmers, not to try to pitch hay or to mow with a Mr. Wotton whom they both said was a regular whirlwind.

"Well," said Uncle Ed, "what Wotton does, I won't have to."

There came a day when Wotton said to Mr. Libby, "We will show Curtis how we do it this afternoon."

Curtis just smiled but said nothing. Soon the fun started. Wotton noticed that Curtis was gaining on him as they were loading a 27-foot hayrick and shouted to the team.

Nationwide Crusade

Boy Scouts Are Seeking To Strengthen the Arm Of Liberty

Through an awakening to the meaning of Liberty, freedom and citizenship the Boy Scouts of America are in a "Crusade To Strengthen the Arm of Liberty."

In an early September meeting at Camp William Hinds the District Commissioners of Pine Tree Council drew up the plans for Pine Tree Council participation in a Nationwide Roll Call to be held during the week of Oct. 2-8. Roll Call officers will actually call the roll of all Cubs who are of age 8-10, inclusive, all Boy Scouts who are of age 11-13 inclusive, and Explorers who are 14 years old and over. The Roll Call meeting will be the occasion for the first of the Crusade's semi-annual Uniform Inspection.

In Knox County, District Commissioner Horatio Cowan, with the help of various committees will visit each unit on its meeting night during the roll call week and conduct the Roll Call and Inspection. Every boy and every young man will be recognized.

This Nation-Wide Crusade will make available the values of Scout training to a million and a quarter eight-year-old boys annually and at the same time will offer the opportunity for an expanded program to approximately the same number of young men now 14 years of age.

As Pine Tree Council Commissioner, Edwin R. Andrews of Bath, has pointed out, "The Crusade will do much to deepen the values of Scout ideals in the lives of all boys and all young men."

ster, "You follow Curtis and I'll be there."

When the large rack was filled above the rails, Wotton cried out, "Wait, if you are going to put those three bunches of hay on this load!"

Mr. Libby laughed and said, "I thought you were going to keep up with Curtis."

Said Wotton, "I guess he is just a little too much for me this time."

Although Mr. Wotton was a much stronger man than Ed, Curtis, he was badly beaten and there was no more bragging from Mr. Wotton. This can be proven by O. B. Libby of South Warren who hired Curtis for several haying seasons.

Curtis told me a short time ago that he can cut two cords of good wood with a good axe in second growth wood even now, and said he had cut over 3500 cords of wood besides 250,000 feet of logs in the past 50 winters. Franklin E. Curtis.

Rockport's Freshmen Were Decorated - Plenty

Sophomores Judy Gray, left, and Arline Jenkins smear generous applications of cold cream and lipstick on Freshmen David McPheters and Louis Treworgy at Rockport's Freshmen Day last Friday.

The activities of the present school year really got underway last week, with the Freshmen initiation and reception. Thursday and Friday saw the Freshmen parading around in ridiculous costume. At times the corridors looked like a reducing salon, for the upper classmen often exercised their privilege of making "Frosh" bow. The "Frosh" provided entertainment, (songs, dances and stunts) at two assemblies. Outstanding among these stunts was a surveying operation (measuring off an aisle with a six inch ruler) by the Freshman boys. The costume of the day, (slippers, upside down skirts, sweaters, suspenders, and signs) made the operation very awkward. The reception was held Friday afternoon after school at the Town Hall. The Freshmen can be thankful that it rained, because the Sophomores had to cancel a long roundabout hike to Camden Beach. Penalty stunts, for disobedience of Freshman Week Rules, were the order of the day. After the "Frosh" had provided plenty of laughs the Sophomores relented and served sandwiches and punch. Friday night, the first social of the year was held. This affair, which was well chaperoned by Miss Webber, was the final official welcome of the Freshmen into High School. After a few stunts there was dancing until 11. Everyone had a grand time and hopes there will be many more such evenings during the year.

TIGERS AT WESTBROOK SATURDAY

Orange and Black Squad Headed For Third Game Of Season At the Forest City

The Tigers meet Westbrook Saturday on that squad's home field, having a slight edge, if wins and losses are to be considered.

While Rockland has dropped one to Madison and whipped Skowhegan, Westbrook has lost two straight to South Portland and Biddeford. The Portland area teams may have been tougher customers than the two mid-state teams and Orange and Black outfit has faced the edge in favor of the Tigers may be mighty thin—if it exists at all.

Either Smith or Legage will spark the Tigers as they square off against the Forest City lads, the choice depending on whether they kick or receive according to Coach Ken McDougal. Last week at Skow.

hegan, LeGage pulled the game out of danger in the closing seconds as he came out of his safety position and snagged a Skowhegan runner headed for pay dirt.

Wayne Gerrish will be snapping the ball back from the center position with Chuck Roberts at fullback and Dean Deshon and Bob Annis filling the halfback spots. Holt and Galliano will be at ends with Wes Hoch and Cedric Long in the tackle positions and George Alex and Erwin Chase playing guards.

Game time is 2 p. m. with a crowd of rooters, such as supported the team at Skowhegan, expected to be on tap to make up a cheering section which is so important to the spirit of a team in a hard game as this one promises to be.

Why Do They Want to Put A&P Out of Business?

The answer is to be found in the formal complaint "they" have filed with the court. By "they" we mean, of course, the anti-trust lawyers from Washington who are out to destroy A&P.

They say . . . and these are the anti-trust lawyers' own words . . . that we "have regularly undersold competing retailers."

To this charge we plead guilty:

We confess that for the past 90 years we have constantly stepped up the efficiency of our operations in order to give our customers more and more good food for their money.

The American people have seen nothing wrong in this. By their ever-increasing patronage for 90 years they have shown that they like this low-price policy.

Apparently the people still see nothing wrong in this today. All during the past week - since the anti-trust lawyers made their charges - we have been deluged with phone calls and letters from men and women in all walks of life who want us to know they are opposed to this effort to put A&P out of business.

An enormous number of customers are telling our store managers and clerks that they want to continue to enjoy our low prices for quality foods.

Farmers and other suppliers are asking what they can do to preserve this efficient outlet for their products.

Our 110,000 employees are asking us to protect their jobs and pensions.

Labor leaders are wiring us their opposition to this threat to labor's living standards.

If all these people will be hurt, why then do the anti-trust lawyers want to put A&P out of business?

Low Prices Don't Hurt Anyone

The anti-trust lawyers say because we are able to sell food cheaper than other grocers, we make it impossible for those grocers to compete with us.

If this were true, we should have all the food business in the United States by this time.

Just the opposite is true. In 1933 we had 11.6 per cent of the nation's food business. Now, according to the anti-trust lawyers, our share has decreased to 6.4 per cent in 1948. Anyone can see we have nothing even approaching a monopoly.

As a matter of fact, there are about 30,000 more individual grocers in business today than there were ten years ago.

There are about 275 more food chains in business today than there were ten years ago.

In other words, we have more competitors in the food field and do a smaller share of the nation's food business than before.

Where is this alleged destruction of other grocers? Where is there any evidence of their inability to compete with us?

Do You Want Higher Prices?

As anyone can see, the only purpose that would be served by putting A&P out of business would be to raise food prices.

Who would this benefit?

We were the first merchants to set the pattern for low-cost, low-profit distribution. Our example and our competition has led other grocers to keep their prices down.

Remove A&P from the picture and food prices are bound to go up.

Remove A&P from the picture and the way will be cleared for the destruction of every other efficient large-scale distributor.

Is this what the American people want?

Is this in the public interest?
